Some of the earlier chapters appeared in an abridged form in "Battles and Leaders of the Civil War," and the closing chapter was read before the Ohio Commandery of the Loyal Legion. By arrangements courteously made by the Century Company and the Commandery, these chapters, partly re-written, are here found in their proper connection.Â Though my private memoranda are full enough to give me reasonable confidence in the accuracy of these reminiscences, I have made it a duty to test my memory by constant reference to the original contemporaneous material so abundantly preserved in the government publication of the Official Records of the Union and Confederate Armies.

In the South, they believed in the doctrine of nullification -- that the states could nullify federal laws. In the North, they rejected nullification. They believed the Constitution made federal government supreme. Expansion of Slavery. One of the causes of the Civil War. In the South, cotton exhausted the soil of the "Old South" so expansion was key to the South's survival. New slave states were admitted into the Union such as Missouri, Kansas and Texas. In the North, after the expansion of slavery westward with the admittance of the new slav Reconstruction, the turbulent era following the U.S. Civil War, was an effort to reunify the divided nation, address and integrate African Americans into society by rewriting the nation's laws and Constitution. The steps taken gave rise to the Ku Klux Klan and other divisive groups.
