In "Vintage Murder," Roderick Alleyn was travelling and, in this book in the series, we see him returning to the UK. On board ship he meets, and falls for, artist, Agatha Troy. Miss Troy turns out to live at Tattler's End House, close to Lady Alleyn, in Bucks. Alleyn goes to visit his mother, while Agatha Troy has a group of students visiting. "Artists in Crime" is an enjoyable well written mystery with some likeable police characters and an interesting insight into Alleyn's relationship with his mother. Read more.
