This field guide allows easier identification of wildflowers in the field because it is composed only of the earliest wildflowers of the season, the wildflowers that begin bloom in April or late March. It is the first book in the "A Year of Wildflowers" series that will portray the wildflowers of Indiana as they progress throughout the year. This book commences the series that will end with the October flowers. There will be at least twenty flowers and photographs in each book in the series.

A meadow rich in wildflowers can make an attractive garden feature, whether you've got rolling acres or only a few metres. Follow our guide. On this page. Where to grow. How to plant. The wildflowers you use largely depend on your soil conditions, personal preference, and if you have a colour scheme in mind. Wildflowers will establish best if planted in the autumn as small plug plants. For a natural look, arrange these in groups across the lawn and take out a core of soil using a trowel. Make holes about 15cm (6in) deep and 5cm (1.9in) in diameter.

An Internet Gardener's Guide to Winter Dreams About Spring Gardening. When winter arrives, it's always been the same for gardeners. Put the tools away, say goodbye to the garden, and trudge inside. But since you're reading this on your computer, you know that things have changed—for the better! Now, while the wind blows outside, we can go right on with our gardening interest online. The Wildflower Guides (there are two—Eastern and Western editions) alone contain information and great photos on over 1200 wildflowers. If you don't know them, these are the standard naturalist field guides almost everyone uses. Enjoy! A wildflower garden is an excellent addition to any property. Not only do these flowers look beautiful, but they are relatively low maintenance and require less care than the average lawn. To plant your... A wildflower garden is an excellent addition to any property. Not only do these flowers look beautiful, but they are relatively low maintenance and require less care than the average lawn. To plant your own wildflower garden, select ground on your property that gets the most sunlight. Prepare the area by tilling up any grass or weeds. Then, spread your seeds and water them every day until the flowers start germinating.
